Dominic Pilkington, Counsel in the Muscat office, is an experienced construction lawyer specialising in construction law and disputes. He advises clients on construction issues, project development and construction-related disputes.

Mr. Pilkington has managed a number of construction disputes to successful outcomes and negotiated on behalf of clients on various major infrastructure projects.

His clients have included major developers, contractors, and energy and resources companies, in relation to a broad range of disputes, from straight-forward claims over time and costs, to complex claims regarding the technical performance of mechanical, electrical or telecommunications systems.

A former Civil and Structural Engineer in Australia, Mr. Pilkington has first hand construction projects experience, which is brought to bear in his advice to many clients in this industry. Mr Pilkington has previously worked at three of Australia’s leading law firms, and has been in-house at a large government-owned real estate business in Dubai, UAE.
